On a shelf lies neglected an ancient tome in its cobweb shroud. In the twilight years, the dust is blown from its cover, and the yellow, rasping leaves are gingerly paged. The faded ghosts of a more carefree, youthful time are set free to romp in the abandoned corners of the attic of the mind. As sweet nostalgia wafts through the empty corridors, a peaceful silence descends.

*Little by little
I go back home,
Stripping off facades
and scraping varnish, Airing rooms grown larger than I knew them.
They say you can't return,
But oh, they lie,
Or never really got there,
after all!
Home is what we build,
and add upon
From all that we have ever known of love.*

FIRST LESSON

Lie back, daughter, let your head be tipped back in the cup of my hand. Gently, I will hold you. Spread your arms wide, lie out on the stream and look high at the gulls. A deadman's float is face down. You will dive and swim soon enough where this tidewater ebbs to the sea. Daughter, believe me, when you tire on the long thrash to your island, lie up, and survive. As you float now, where I held you and let go, remember when fear cramps your heart what I told you: lie gently and wide to the light-year stars, lie back, and the sea will hold you.

*Labor is blossoming or dancing where
 The body is not bruised to pleasure soul,
 Nor beauty born out of its own despair,
 Nor blear-eyed wisdom out of midnight oil.

CONGRATULATIONS BARB
FOUR BEAUTIFUL YEARS
MOM & DAD

Congratulations Michele and a note from Columella, 1st century
A.D.: Not content with the authority of either former or present day(s) . . . we must hand down our own experiences and set ourselves to experiments as yet untried.

To Anita Kothari

Congratulations. The honor is well earned. It is not only a compliment for the past but reflects upon the future.

Congratulations,
Nicholas Apostoleris

Editor's Note:

People often ask me why I chose to undergo the painful process of editing the yearbook yet a second time. In fact, this is a question that I often ask myself. And for the longest time I had no real answer.

Then one day I was struck with an overpowering sense of finality. Graduation was fast approaching and with it the departure of some of my closest friends. This made me fully realize the value of a yearbook. Even though we may be hundreds, perhaps thousands, of miles apart, every time I flip through the pages of the book and see their pictures I will remember our experiences together, and the distance between us will not seem so great.

And that is why I edited the yearbook a second time. Because it is important. Because it is a conjurer of fond memories, and I want to be sure that others have the opportunity to benefit from it.

So I dedicate this book to the Class of 1987 generally. But more specifically I offer it as tribute to a few who I will miss the most and with whom I hope never to lose touch.

Sincerely,

Leslie MacAvoy
